

Clinical Adviser

Are you interested in influencing clinical standards?

As a Clinical Adviser you will use your knowledge and expertise to influence clinical policy and practice through contributing to the development of clinical guidelines and quality standards. The opportunities are diverse and flexible, ranging from contributing to individual consultations, to year-long commitments developing new guidelines.

For more information, visit our Clinical Advisers page here.

To become a Clinical Adviser you will need to complete a registration form, including a registration of interests, and enclose this with your CV.

What does the role involve?

- Submitting written comments on draft clinical guidelines and quality standards out for consultation
- Attending events on behalf of the RCGP, such as scoping workshops
- Opportunities to become part of a guideline development committee
- Supporting other work within the Clinical Innovation and Research Centre (CIRC) and across the RCGP
- Adhere to the relevant policies and procedures of RCGP, including our Health and Safety, Safeguarding, Equality and Diversity, Data Protection and Confidentiality policies.

What skills and qualities do you need?

RCGP is committed to equal opportunities and welcomes applications from all sections of our membership.

Essential attributes:

- demonstrates clinical competency within general practice
- an interest in influencing clinical practice and improving the quality of clinical care
- an interest in evidence based-medicine
- an up-to-date knowledge of best practice within general practice
- an understanding of the current challenges facing general practice
- excellent communication and interpersonal skills
- an ability to complete tasks on time
- an ability to work as part of a team

Royal College of General Practitioners

- willingness to uphold the value of RCGP. Our values are Care, Leadership, Excellence and Teamwork

Desirable attributes:

- representation at a local or national level
- track record in innovation, research or quality improvement

What we can offer you

- Support and guidance within your role
- The opportunity to influence clinical policy and practice
- The ability to get involved in other opportunities with CIRC and across the RCRP
- Reimbursement of reasonable expenses

How to apply

Please complete our registration form and return it along with your CV to clinicaladvisers@rcgp.org.uk